

ASK FOR EXPULSION OF LAFOLLETTE FROM SENATE!!!

MINNESOTA GOVERNOR REQUESTS OUSTING OF "HUN WITHIN GATES"

SENATOR KELLOGG OF MINNESOTA PRESENTS COMMUNICATION FROM GOVERNOR AND PUBLIC SAFETY COMMISSION REQUESTING EXPULSION OF SENIOR WISCONSIN SENATOR.

COMES AS RESULT OF HIS ST. PAUL ADDRESS

Question is Referred to Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections For Further Action by Vice President Marshall—La Follette Not in Chamber at Time and No Discussion or Other Action is Taken on Floor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 29.—A communication from the governor of Minnesota and the state public safety commission requesting the expulsion from the senate of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, was presented in the senate today by Senator Kellogg of Minnesota and referred by Vice President Marshall to the senate privileges and election committee.

Senator Kellogg received the communication which was adopted by the state commission which was the result of Senator La Follette's late speech in St. Paul.

Before presenting it to the senate he conferred with Vice President Marshall, Senator Martin of Virginia democratic leader, and Senator Pomeroy of Ohio, chairman of the committee to which it was referred. Any further action will first come from the committee.

Senator La Follette was not in the chamber when the communication was presented and there was no discussion or other action.

Four other communications, one from the Washburn Loyalty League of Washburn, Wis., and three from individuals, demanding the impeachment of Senator La Follette, were received by Vice President Marshall and presented to the senate in the usual routine today.

Senator Kellogg explained that he presented the resolution according to usual practice of all senators of filing communications from responsible organizations, and there was no other significance in his action.

Characterizing La Follette's speech in St. Paul of Sept. 20, before the non-partisan league as "disloyal and seditious," the resolution declares the utterances already have served to create treasonable sentiment in Minnesota and petitioned the senate to begin proceedings to expel La Follette as "a teacher of disloyalty and sedition, giving aid and comfort to our enemies, and hindering the government on account of the war."

Senator Pomeroy indicated that the privileges and elections committee would take no action for the present at least. He said he could not decide until after conferring with other members, and that a quorum of the committee could not be obtained, probably during this session.

DEFINES POSITION OF STATE AGAINST MILK ASSOCIATIONS

U. S. NOW TRAINING HOME-PROTECTORS FOR FIGHTERS' KIN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Sept. 29.—Wisconsin will prosecute milk dealers who attempt to circumvent the price fixing agreement outlined at a meeting in Chicago, Attorney General Walter C. Owen announced late Friday.

"The action of the producers in fixing a price is unlawful and the price demanded extortionate," said Attorney General Owen. "The conspiracy against the public welfare at this time will not be permitted. This department has sufficient evidence on hand to maintain the necessary legal proceedings to prevent it. Legal action will include criminal action which will be instituted if necessary. Every member of the association who shall demand the association's price will be liable. Anyone who distributes, or attempts to distribute, or seeks to prevent in any way the sale and delivery of milk except at the association price will be liable. Any person who refuses to sell or attempts to prevent a milk strike will be liable and will be held strictly accountable."

To Strict Regulation.
Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 29.—The State Council of Defense will take up the milk question next week and try to bring about some plan for price regulation.

Persons interested in the milk situation may meet in Madison for a conference. Representative producers, shippers and condensers would be invited.

Condensary men who have been in Washington figuring with the national food officials will be back by that time and will be in position to discuss results with the members of the national food board.

After the conference has been concluded, it is likely a statement may be issued from Washington that the federal authorities can take action if necessary. This was the plan followed in regard to coal and the attempt to fix milk prices rests primarily with the national authorities.

Socialists Question Official Support of Pan-German Trouble

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Copenhagen, Sept. 29.—The majority of socialists in the German reichstag have interpellated the government concerning official support of the Pan-German agitation and the Fatherland party. The socialists have also made an interpellation on reported government interference with the right of assembly.

The interpellation offered by the socialists reads: "Is the chancellor aware that army officers are conducting a vigorous agitation in favor of Pan-German policies and particularly against the reichstag? What does the chancellor contemplate doing to check this abuse of authority by officers?"

The interpellation does not mention the activities of civilian officials although the Vorwarts, Tageblatt and other newspapers have asserted repeatedly that the superiors in the schools and government departments are using pressure to get their subordinates to join the Fatherland party. The second interpellation concerning the right of assembly accuses the home military authority of manipulating the right of assembly one-sidedly in favor of Pan-German propaganda.

British Airmen Drop 7 Tons of Bombs On Hun Military Bases

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Sept. 29.—British aviators dropped seven tons of explosives in attacks Thursday night on German military establishments in Belgium, according to an official report given out today by the admiralty.

Heavy fighting. Paris, Sept. 29.—Violent artillery fighting occurred last night on the right bank of the Meuse in the Verdun sector, says today's official statement.

Much Artillery. London, Sept. 29.—It was the usual artillery activity on both sides, says today's official communication. "There is nothing of interest to report."

British Casualties. British casualties reported during September total 104,538, divided as follows: Officers killed or died of wounds, 636; men, 13,302; officers wounded or missing, 2,151; men 83,509.

U. S. MAY RECEIVE WHEAT FROM CHINA

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Changchun, Manchuria, Sept. 29.—Manchurian and Siberian wheat probably will be exported to America to replace American wheat shipped to the entente allies in Europe. Because of the lack of locomotives and cars it is impossible to send the wheat surplus from eastern Asia into Europe. Russia. At scores of railway stations in Siberia and Manchuria sacks of wheat only slightly protected by temporary sleds are rapidly deteriorating.

Agents of the United States government have been inspecting the wheat and soy beans which are awaiting transportation, and it is probable that the wheat and beans within reasonable distance of tidewater will be diverted to America.

There are many flour mills in Siberia and Manchuria. European Russia lacks flouring facilities. Plans are under consideration for the removal of some of the mills from western Siberia to centers in southern Russia, where large quantities of wheat are available.

FIRST STANDARDIZED LINER IS FINISHED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, Sept. 29.—The first standardized merchant steamer built to the order of the government to replace those destroyed by German submarines has been completed and placed in commission in less than seven months from the date on which the keel was laid. It is expected that vessels similar to this first one will be constructed in four to four and one-half months. Many hundreds of others are being built, and Sir Joseph MacLay announced during the trial of the first standardized steamer that every shipyard in the United Kingdom was full of such vessels in process of construction.

It is understood that six types of cargo steamers, known as A, B, C, D, E and F, are at present being constructed of about 5,000 tons dead weight, 5,000 tons and 3,000 tons, and the construction of other types is being considered. Some of the ships already built are especially adapted for carrying grain, being single deckers; others with twin decks would be suitable for carrying any class of cargo. The fact that engines of standard design can be fitted in any vessel of the type for which it is adapted has merits at the outset and also merits when repairs to the machinery are required since spare parts will be readily available.

The operation of all the state standard ships will be placed in the care of steamship managers subject to direction of the shipping controller.

PRICE OF LIBERTY BONDS NOW 100.30

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Sept. 29.—The price of Liberty Bonds continued to move upward today. At the outset of the trading of the stockmarket, a lot of $4000 sold at 10.30, a new high record, six points above yesterday's high.

KERENSKY IN DEFENSE OF REGIME

TELLS DEMOCRATIC CONGRESS THAT HIS REGIME SAVED RUSSIA IN HER DARKEST HOUR.

MEETING A CHALLENGE

Assemblage Stirred by Addresses of Two Factions—To Fight To A Final Victory.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Petrograd, Sept. 29.—Premier Kerensky took the initiative today and faced boldly what may be the supreme test of the power of his government. At the very beginning of the democratic congress called by the maximalists and the council of workmen and soldier delegates, to question his power and perhaps to demand a new government, he addressed the assembly. The premier accepted the challenge.

He told the congress that his regime had saved Russia in its darkest hour. The government also had to face the very real danger of the return of discipline and his announcement that the officers would be named by their superiors instead of elected by the soldiers was applauded loudly but his address as a whole evoked more cheers than did the premier's.

M. Kerensky in his speech referred to the revolution as a struggle for the good of Russia, and he declared that he was informed from the beginning of its existence.

When the premier declared that the good of Russia necessitated the observance of order and discipline, one of the most dramatic heckling incidents which punctuated the address, occurred. He had paused and a pause in his address, when a loud voice in the gallery shouted, "You are the great mischief maker of the country." From a bedlam of hisses and applause the speaker rose and challenged the heckler to arise. A common soldier in the back gallery arose, and with arms folded across his chest, stood calmly facing a common soldier in the front of the hall. The speaker, however, did not rise. This was only one of the unusual scenes.

Killed Socialists. London, Sept. 29.—According to dispatch from Petrograd, one hundred and fifty Russians belonging to various Socialist and other political organizations have been hanged by the Germans since their occupation of Riga.

U. S. AID A PHANTOM SAYS HUN MINISTER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Copenhagen, Sept. 29.—In an interview in the 'Nouvelles Pester Journal' of Budapest, Admiral Von Tirpitz, former German minister of the navy, characterized America's military help in the war, as a phantom. He asserts there is no possibility of transporting a considerable American army to Europe.

The admiral gives his Hungarian leaders, a long list of reasons why they should and must hold out with Germany and Austria until the end of the war. He says that the Hun army has won the war for them, but declares it is unwise, "on account of political reasons," to prophesy the moment of England's collapse.

WILL HOLD INQUEST TO SOLVE MYSTERY

Coroner Ryan Calls for Jury Inquest in Beloit Murder Case.—Two Negroes Held.

An inquest to determine the cause of the death of William deLudvigh, aged 40, of Beloit, has been ordered by Coroner Frank Ryan of this city, to be held on Tuesday, October 2, in Beloit. The death of deLudvigh has been a mystery to the Beloit police, due to the presence of three negroes who were in the vicinity at the time the body was found.

Two colored men, Clyde Hoffman and Clyde Coleman, have revealed to the Beloit police that they were present with the man when he met his death. They both further admit that they either pushed or shoved deLudvigh from a porch and that when he dropped lifeless they carried him from in front of the porch to the spot near the curb where his body was found.

The jury was sworn in by Coroner Ryan on Friday afternoon and then adjourned until Tuesday until more evidence could be secured by the police to present to the jury. The police in Beloit are of the belief that there was an attempt made to murder or to rob the man.

VOLUNTEER AUTOMOBILES WANTED FOR CRUSADE

The forthcoming Liberty loan must be a success. It is going to require whole-hearted work on the part of every citizen. There will be posters to place, literature to distribute, and meetings to organize throughout Rock county. Automobiles will be required. Request is made that every owner of an automobile tender the use of a machine for as much service in this cause as possible. Those who are willing to help will please make the offer to M. G. Jeffery, Chairman of the Rock county Liberty Loan committee; W. H. Dougherty, Chairman of the Speakers committee; Harry H. Bliss, Chairman of the Publicity committee; or A. E. Leveley, Chairman of the city committee.

No Renunciation Of Territory Held In Belgium by Germany

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Copenhagen, Sept. 29.—Germany has not renounced Belgium and has not been in communication with any of her enemies, according to Berlin reports of a speech made before the reichstag main committee by Chancellor Michaelis. The chancellor is quoted as follows:

"Moreover I declare the statement that the imperial government had already communicated with this or that hostile government and that it has in advance renounced occupied territory thus abandoning the most valuable advantage in peace negotiations is untrue. I declare the imperial government has a free hand for conventional peace negotiations. This also refers to Belgium."

British Bring Down Two Hun Air Raiders In Attack on Coast

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Sept. 29.—Two German aeroplanes which took part in last night's raid over the southwest coast of England were brought down today, it was announced officially. No casualties were caused by the raid.

The following official announcement was made: "The French commander of the Home Defenses, reports that the latest information indicates that about twenty enemy machines participated in last night's raid. Bombs were dropped in a number of places in Kent, Essex and Suffolk, but no casualties, and only insignificant damage have been reported. Repeated attacks were made on London, but in no case did the raiders penetrate the outer defenses.

"One enemy aeroplane is reported to have been shot down in the Thames Estuary, and a second one off the coast."

The severity of the fighting in which the British have been engaged during September is indicated not only by the number of casualties, but also by the total compared favorably, however, with the losses of September 1916, the third month of the battle of the Somme, when the casualties were 119,549.

SPECIAL WAR CROSS FOR AMERICAN WHO SAVES 50 CIVILIANS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Sept. 29.—The first American soldier to win the war cross, with the name of John McClain of Dayton, O., says the Paris Herald. On the night of September 1, a German aeroplane flew over the village in which he was and dropped several bombs. McClain, a sixteen year old boy, was in the building around which some fifty villagers had gathered.

Notwithstanding the warning and explosions of those near him, McClain dashed out into the road, and discovering the bomb, with the aid of a patent electric lamp, picked it up and hurled it into the air. The bomb exploded as it struck the water. It sent up a column of water, but no one was hurt.

John McClain, who is twenty-four years of age, has been in the army four years. He saw service in Mexico. The French authorities have notified his wife, Mrs. Elsie McClain of 645 West 12th street, New York, of the honor conferred upon him.

SOUTH EMERGES FROM PATH OF HURRICANE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Mobile, Ala., Sept. 29.—The Gulf coast section of eastern Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida were cleared of clouds by the passage of a hurricane which swept in from the Gulf of Mexico Friday and for a number of hours isolated many towns along the coast. Roots of residences and training buildings were damaged, but warning in advance prevented extensive damage to shipping and as scores of persons came in from exposed points no loss of life was reported.

Hit Towns. The storm struck the coast at the mouth of the Mississippi and sweeping across the narrow portion of Louisiana, passed New Orleans, but hit Biloxi and the Mississippi coast section, swept through Mobile at times with a velocity of ninety-six miles an hour and extended east to Pensacola. Several buildings in the business district were destroyed by fire, demoralization of the fire alarm system giving the flames a start. The loss is put at $250,000.

The storm tide was continuing its way inland in a northeasterly direction through Alabama and Florida, though apparently with diminishing force.

Await Word. New Orleans, Sept. 29.—Word was anxiously awaited here from Pensacola. All wire communication with Pensacola had been cut off since about one p. m. yesterday when messages from the city stated the wind was blowing about one hundred miles an hour and indicated considerable damage to buildings. The city was in a state of alarm and the navy and army were in touch with Pensacola by wireless were made by the naval radio station throughout the night and early today, but up to five a. m. no response had been received.

FIFTEEN YEAR OLD BOY HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

Paul Claxton, the fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Claxton of Williams street, had a narrow escape from death last evening. He was running home on his bicycle last night when he was overtaken by an automobile driven by John Guehling, who lives near the four mile bridge. They both seemed to turn in the same direction. The boy was caught by the car and dragged a block before he was finally extricated. Mr. Guehling took him home in the car, where it was found that he had suffered only a few minor bruises and property. His bicycle was smashed into pieces.

ARRESTS OF I. W. W. MEN CONTINUED

FEDERAL AGENTS THROUGHOUT COUNTRY ARREST THOSE IN. DICTED AT CHICAGO YESTERDAY.

SECURE MORE EVIDENCE

Leaders Taken at Minneapolis and Bemidji With Valuable Evidence of Intrigues.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Federal agents in various parts of the country continued to make arrests of the I. W. W. workers indicated here yesterday according to telegrams received at the office of the United States District Attorney Chas. Cline. No statement was forthcoming this morning as to when a complete list of prisoners could be announced.

In Minneapolis. Minneapolis, Sept. 29.—Five members of the I. W. W., C. A. Lambert, Theodore Fraser, Forrest Edwards, Dan Hackley and A. J. Solberg were arrested at the organization local headquarters and placed in the county jail early today. A considerable amount of literature and correspondence was secured in the government raid of the I. W. W. office here three weeks ago.

At Bemidji. Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 29.—Jess Dunning, former secretary of the Bemidji local I. W. W., was found guilty by a jury last night of publicly displaying a book teaching sabotage. He will be sentenced to prison. Dunning was deported along with a number of other I. W. W. July 26 last but was told to return here for trial.

NO EVIDENCE THAT BERNSTORFF'S FUND REACHED CONGRESS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 29.—The German "Ausland" office took out again on the floor of the house today with the presentation of a letter by Chairman Paul of the rules committee, from Secretary Lansing, declaring the state department and congress have declared that members of congress had any connection with Count Bernstorff's $500,000 fund.

A lively agitation for having the senate pass some resolution reaffirming the war aims of the United States and further approving the administration war policy developed today.

Administration leaders declared the resolution would be the senate's answer to the public speeches of those members who deny the war.

SWEDEN PREPARES FOR FOOD SHORTAGE

Stockholm, Sept. 29.—Owing to the unexpected scarcity of food during autumn, the stock of live cattle in Sweden will be reduced approximately by one half. The government has taken to arrange slaughtering and packing the enormous quantity of meat which will result from the slaughter of cattle. The government has taken energetic steps to organize wood cutting and the transportation of the enormous quantity of fuel which will be wanted in the winter. Germany has only a third of the Swedish ordinary consumption of coal, 5,600,000 tons, and England practically nothing.

On Stockholm's boulevards half the ground space is covered by high piles of firewood, while every open place presents the same picture. Numerous steamers are bringing props every week to port before the heavy frosts in October or November. Sweden in this way is to a certain extent making herself independent of English and German coal for the time being.

Lighting is another capital problem in Sweden. Petroleum has increased in value to over $3 a gallon and cannot be readily obtained upon the factory. Swedish manufacturers of calcium carbide have increased their output and the dark season will be met by sufficient quantity of carbide. Simultaneously, factories have taken up the manufacture of lamps.

Sweden has also hurried the electrifying of its waterfalls to provide light.

THOUGHTS TO THINK ABOUT

Good and evil are both needed; your enemy sends evil to you in large packages. Don't send good to him in small doses to get even.

The dollar is elusive; it's hard to keep, it won't go far and it's hard to get back.

If we do not put forth all our best efforts to every task, no matter how small, the great things of life will not find in us the ability to handle them.

Keep forging ahead through the sweet and bitter, for the Lord only knows how we all hate a quitter.

EDUCATIONAL SERMONS
AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Beginning tomorrow morning a series of three sermons on education will be given at the Presbyterian church. The subjects of the respective sermons being: "The Church and the School," "The Bible and the Public School," "Right Enthusiasm and Education."

The first sermon will aim to show the vital relation between religion and the major institution of social control and the school as the institution of social transmission. Despite their organic separation a better understanding of the function of each is to be gained from this series.

The second will give a historic resume of the process of school secularization and the changing front of well as religious leaders in regard to it.

The closing discourse will attempt to show how a full ordered education should be a social adjustment to the birth in mechanistic and spiritual aspects.

Those having no other church obligations are invited.

CO-OPERATION ASKED BY ARMY OFFICIALS IN ENFORCING LAW

Mayor Fathers Receives Letter From Camp Grant in Regard to the Sale of Liquor to Soldiers.

Mayor Fathers has received a letter from the military authorities at Camp Grant, Rockford, relative to the sale of liquor to the men stationed there, while they are on trips to Janesville. The letter asks the mayor to warn the persons who sell or give liquor to the soldiers while they are in uniform of the penalty for the offense and what will be the result upon the city as a whole if the practice is carried on.

The letter states that it has been reported that intoxicating liquors have been obtained by the soldiers while in this city. Mayor Fathers, however, in a statement this morning, said that he did not believe that this was true and that the people of the city of Janesville were doing their share to aid the military authorities in the full execution of the law.

The mayor stated, however, that this matter would be carefully watched and if any infringements were noted and if any application of the law would result, he was of the opinion that it had been sent to all the towns and cities within a radius of forty miles of the camp in order to make the people of power and desire of the president to execute the law to its fullest extent. Accompanying the letter to the mayor was a copy of the regulations issued by the president and secretary of war in regard to the sale of liquor to men in the military service of the United States, and to the control of immoral conditions in the vicinity of the training camps.

The details of the case of the United States vs. Angell, 11th Federal Reporter 931.

It has been reported to the authorities of this camp that soldiers are obtaining intoxicating liquor in Janesville, which fact, if it continues, will be a serious menace to the discipline of the camp.

While persons furnishing liquor to soldiers may believe they are favoring the soldier, they are, as a matter of fact, helping to bring about trouble both for the soldier and themselves.

It is understood that there is as yet no regulation or law forbidding the sale of liquor to soldiers without their consent, but it is nevertheless within the power of the president to make such regulation under the provisions of the act of March 18th, 1917.

It is thought that you and the citizens of your city desire to co-operate with the military authorities in this matter and for this reason we wish to bring to your attention the hope that the situation mentioned may be remedied by you and the practice of furnishing soldiers with liquor stopped without the necessity of the military authorities.

Very truly,
W. W. McCannion,
Lieut. Col. in National Army,
Acting Camp Adjutant.

MUNICIPAL JUDGE HAS A LIGHT DAY

Two Get Jail Sentences in Court—Seven Complaints Filed Against Railroads.

Judge Maxfield had a very light day in the municipal court this morning as only two cases were brought before him for judgment. Both cases were men charged with drunkenness and were old offenders of the law.

Dave Cunningham appeared before the judge and entered a plea of guilty on a charge of drunkenness. He was given $20 and costs or thirty days in jail as his sentence.

Robert Welch, after being warned several times by the chief of police to leave the city and not to work, was arrested last evening. Welch was arrested before the court on several occasions and for that reason the chief gave him the opportunity to leave the city and work elsewhere.

The chief was charged with being drunk and given a fine of $25 and costs or the alternative of thirty days in jail.

Eight complaints have been filed by the local business community against the railroad companies for failure to deliver shipments of cheese to its destination in good condition. Seven of these complaints are against the C. & N. W. railroad and one against the C. & St. P. railroad. The amounts range from $16.00 as high as $45.50.

E. L. Badger has also filed a complaint against J. E. Hemming for damages to the car of $100. Both are residents of Footville. Badger charges that Hemming while driving an automobile, ran down his son and resulting in damages to the above amount.

The cases against the Northwestern railroad have been set for October 13 and the cases against the C. & St. P. railroad for October 16.

ART LEAGUE PLAN FOR BUSY-WINTER

The Art league is preparing for a very busy winter, according to the program submitted to the members at a special meeting held on yesterday at library hall. The program is outlined by the chairman, Mrs. Woods, included a memorial day for artists who are passing during the winter, which will be held on the opening day of the season, Oct. 12th. The rest of the program will consist of current events, and will include art exhibits both American and foreign. Each day's program will be in charge of a leader who will have three assistants. Besides the literary work of the year the club plans to do quite a little in the Red Cross work. Subscription is being taken up among the members, to purchase material for another outfit for a hospital patient. This will be made up by the members at the Red Cross headquarters.

A committee was also appointed by the president to see that hand work was brought to the meetings, so that those who did not bring their knitting would not be unprovided with work. The following committees were announced by the president. Social committee—Meadames Thorne, Arnold Howe, Murdoch and Sanborn. Exhibition committee—Meadames Pember, Woods, Eddien, Ehringer, and Miss McArthur. Civic committee—Mrs. Macdon, Miss Cassidy and Miss Calkins. Press committee—Mrs. Helms.

The second meeting of the year will be a social for the purpose of getting acquainted during the winter. This will be held on Oct. 26th. A special meeting also will be given "The reports of the delegates to the State Convention to be held in Madison, October 1 to 15." Mrs. Pember said who will represent the club are Mesdames Fifeild, Woods, Pember, McGowan and Miss Charlotte Prichard.

The program for the convention was read by the secretary and special attention was made of an art luncheon which will be served in the women's building on Thursday. It will be followed by an art conference in the afternoon. The hosts club is planning on planning tours through the capitol building and trips about the city for the entertainment of their guests. The chairman of the exhibition committee, Mrs. Pember, said arrangements would undoubtedly be made to have the Rotary exhibition of the state come to Janesville sometime this winter. The hosts club is planning to have a loan art and pottery exhibition in Janesville sometime this winter. or within 1,500 of the record made in September, 1892.
The next Monday's hog run ranged from 15,000 to 22,000. G. F. Swift and R. W. Oake marked 18,000, Edward Morris 20,000, F. W. Waddell 22,000, Milt Minter 19,000, N. W. Walters 17,000 and G. M. Nicoli 16,000.

Receipts for today are estimated at 4,000 cattle, 6,000 hogs and 2,000 sheep, against 1,550 cattle, 13,175 hogs and 6,000 sheep corresponding Saturday a year ago.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $19.20, against $19.05 Thursday, $18.35 a week ago, $10.13 a year ago and $7.49 two years ago.

Cattle Market Dull.
There were no new features to the cattle trade yesterday, and prices were like the low time of the week on Tuesday, although butcher stock and bulls were weak to 25c lower. Calves were steady. Buyers were well loaded up with cattle, and they find it impossible to "cut" their order out of a liberal receipts since a week ago.

Quotations:

Poor to fancy veal calves 10.00@15.75
Western range steers... 7.00@16.00

Hogs Near Record.
Hogs of desirable class sold mostly 10@20c higher, but other kinds, after an uneven start, were little improved from the best time Thursday. Trade was uneven, but the top price of $19.70 stood 50c higher than the previous Friday. Pigs were in good demand at higher prices, but scarcity kept buyers from filling all of their orders. Quotations:
Bulk of sales... $18.80@19.55

"Keep Display Strength."

Aged sheep yesterday ruled strong, and the native lambs were 25c to 35c higher, while rangers gained 25c. Feeding lambs, however, were only steady although in good demand. Western weaners reached $2.00 and natives $1.75. Native lambs topped at $17.25, but strictly prime ones were lacking. Range lambs to killers reached $17.75, feeders paying $18 for some. Quotations:

Fruit, retail—Lemons, 40c doz.; eating apples 8c pound; cooking apples, 30c peck; crab apples, 15c peck; crab apples, 45c pk.; peaches 25c for small basket. 2.20@2.75 bushel; cantaloupe, 10c, 3 for 25c; watermelons, 15@20c each; California piums,

YESTERDAY'S MARKETS.
Chicago, Sept. 28.—Better grades of hogs advanced 10@20c yesterday, while common packing kinds were little changed. Top at $19.70 was within 30c of the record price and was 50c above only 5c below Aug. 23, the high day.

There were no new features in yesterday's cattle trade. Receipts for the week promise to total close to 94,000.

SIDE LIGHTS on the CIRCUS BUSINESS

By D. W. WATT

Former Manager Burr Robbins and Later Treasurer of Adam Forepaugh Circuses.

One evening last week, I chanced to meet half a dozen old friends, and after talking over different matters, for a short time, our conversation finally drifted into the show business.

One of two family took the stand that the show of today in general has not advanced with the times. In fact, they thought they had deteriorated and gone back, rather than advanced. After discussing the matter over and over for some time, I could not see that it would last for hours, and we would finally drop back to where we commenced, and would amount to but little.

But after witnessing the Great Barnum and Bailey show that exhibited here this summer, and seeing the greatest aggregation of athletes that I had ever seen, I am now a man could not see. So far as I know, there has not been any kind of show business that was a failure, and that was the great spectacle business, like the Pull of Babylon, and a few others of the same nature, put up by the Kralitz Brothers. While they were the greatest producers of the world, the kind that the world has ever seen or realized, for the reason that the expense was so great, it was impossible to make it a success. But in all other lines of show business, they have certainly been advancing year after year, and New York capitalists are busy getting the great New York Hippodrome in readiness for next winter's run. And when it is opened to the public, there will be many surprises given the people, for there will be the greatest congress of the world's greatest athletes that has ever been gathered together. And people who take the stand that they do, that the show business is not advancing, it would seem to me that it is high time they would shake the John Dill and Dan Rice ideas of their heads and realize, as the old darkey said, "that the world do move."

For the circus game, I think I know something about it, and it has certainly advanced year after year. The circus stands alone as a form of entertainment that reaches the whole human family with equal interest. Another point of advantage of the circus for amusement generally is that it does not depend upon a knowledge of any tongue. There is no dialogue to follow and no text or story to understand. Eyes to see and ears to hear are the essentials for perfect pleasure. The circus is a knowledge of no language, and the Mexican, who can only talk Spanish, and the American born, in short, the circus seems to be understood by the whole world, which makes the whole world kin and wondrous kind.

Of the many types of circus-goers—and the habit is pronounced in all sections and among all classes of people—is the most striking. He will travel further, endure more privations and skip himself harder to get the price of admission than any other class being probably, in the world. More than this, he really enjoys the circus, even better than the negro, though he doesn't make a fuss over it. With the negro circus going is almost a disease. He will sell anything he owns, not excepting the most necessary things in life, to get money to see the elephant. The same may be said of the Indian. The negro sees the white hunter of his people, his squaw, or even his most cherished possession, his horse, to get a ticket. After these come the Chinaman. The Mexican too is prompt to trade his gold and silver with all the colors of the rainbow sky. The latest greaser on the Texas border, who never paid a day in his life, is usually on a circus day with his fifty cents, though nobody knows where he got it. In the far west the Ringling circus is known among the Indians as the "Big Hairy Snake." The great main waits for its yearly appearance as confidently as he awaits the coming of spring.

The Indians come from as far as 200 miles on horseback, and even on foot, starting on their long journey days before the circus date and arriving in the morning of the day of the show. It is a case of every man for himself with the Indians. The lord of the temper brings enough rinks in the shape of moccasins and bows and arrows to peddle around town, and in this way get enough for his admission ticket. His squaw brings willow baskets and has to hustle for her own ticket. They generally come in couples astride of a pony, and if the market is overcrowded with Indian relics they will sell the nag.

When the show trains arrive in these western towns early in the morning, 200 and 300 tents have already been pitched by the Indians, some of whom have arrived the night before. Their little colony is almost as interesting as the circus itself. It is a veritable bazaar of relics and papoose exhibitions. While the squaws are getting breakfast the children are playing games and the men are mending their knickknacks to the market. They are the first ones after the doors of the tents open to land on the blue planks. They fill a large part of the area, and they never move during the entire performance. Applause is unknown to them. They make as little show of enthusiasm as their brothers in wood. The trick elephant were to climb the center pole they would no doubt enjoy the performance, but they would make no more show of surprise than if they were molded of clay. If the performing nule were to walk on the hippodrome track, make a circus announcement in the Indian tongue, they would only grunt.

Along the Pacific coast Chinamen are among the firm friends of Ringling Brothers. Like the Indians, they are good patrons of this particular show. At least 25,000 Chinamen saw the performances in San Francisco last season. The merchants gave box parties, the men wearing embroidered gowns, and the women costly silks cut, not in the form of dresses, but as a man wears his broadcloth. The jeweled stick pins that their ladies tightly drawn hair in a graceful fold at the nape of the neck, the filigree neck chains and the sparkling bracelets and ear ornaments, added to the sheen of the embroidered gowns, made the picture of these Chinamen's parties not soon to be forgotten by the traveling showman. The Chinaman is an undemonstrative as the Indian. He is a quiet, unobtrusive, and his performance by attending time after time. Though the Chinamen and Indians are undemonstrative, the cow punchers, Mexicans and Negroes are as noisy as their throats and hands will allow. When one of the big shows tours the south the cotton fields are practically deserted. Every negro within a radius of ten miles of the town where the circus is to exhibit has to see the performance, if he has to sell his coat to do it. The applause and laughter of these children-like people is deafening, and the clowns are the chief cause. The negro never tries to dodge the "under 12" clause, but pays for his children if they are a day over the age limit without a murmur. It is often no small gain on his finances to do this, for usually he heads a family of half a dozen or more youngsters.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Billie Rhodes' press agent sends in these kind words about the little star. The best of it is that they're rather true. Listen: "Miss Rhodes throws no pies. She uses on slapsticks. Her feet are dainty and tripping. Her face is fair and she hasn't the trace of a mustache. But she is nevertheless a permeating delight. There is a laugh in every move she makes. There is a story in her little plays that gives occasion for the laugh. "Miss Rhodes has solved the art of getting a laugh without clowning for it. She is one of the most delectable of screen comedians. She is dainty, modest, clean-cut and comic."

A QUICK CHANGE

"To the Death," stars Petrova. As most of us know, scenes of a movie seldom are photographed in their natural sequence. This, not infrequently, has strange results, as in "To the Death." The villain picks up the heroine, cave-man fashion, and runs off with her in his arms. When he sets her down she has on an entirely different gown than when he picked her up, and a different hat. Petrova recently had her say about the directors and they have been working. In her forthcoming pictures, made by her own company, Petrova will be directed by Petrova.

MACHISTE

Machiste was the strong man in "Machiste." Last summer, while on leave of absence from the Italian army, he starred in a photoplay soon to be released in America. It's called "The Warrior." It's understood that when this engagement in the movies was filled he returned to the army, being needed there to lift artillery over the Alps. His physical development, as revealed by the pictures, makes this explanation seem not unreasonable. It was reported a few days ago that he had been killed in action.

It is said that the studio where Theda Bara is no working, is filled with black bearded, fierce looking Russian gentlemen who practice their national dances during intervals. Some lively place it must be!

AMUSEMENTS

(Notices furnished by the theatres.)

MYERS THEATRE.

"HIS BRIDAL NIGHT," With Frederick V. Bowers. "His Bridal Night," by Margaret Mayo and Lawrence Rising, with music by Frederick V. Bowers, and with Mr. Bowers himself in the stellar role, will be the attraction at Myers theatre on Wednesday evening, Oct. 3.

Just imagine marrying one of two fascinating twins and then not knowing which is your wife on your bridal night? Can you imagine being claimed by both, wanting one, and then not knowing which one? That is the situation in "His Bridal Night," a masterpiece of farce comedy, the kind of which Margaret Mayo is past master. Then imagine the outcome of the fun-making qualities of Frederick Bowers when he takes his bridal trip with the sister he did not marry. Add to that fact that the two fascinating sisters are the Warren Twins, charming dancers, both singers and about the prettiest pair of twins on the American stage, and what more delectable dilemma could a Sultan ask?

Proclaimed last season as the best offering for lovers of laughs, lingerie and the light fantastic, "His Bridal Night" has been converted from a farce comedy into a musical comedy, and, since the music is by Mr. Bowers, one of the country's most successful composers of popular songs, lovers of tuneful music may be added to those who will be pleased.

Sartorial elegance may be expected in any production with which Fred Bowers is identified and in this department "His Bridal Night" will not be disappointing. It is fresh and new from the New York studios. And, according to his custom, Mr. Bowers has surrounded himself with the best available talent. Besides the Warren Twins, those in the cast are Alma Youlin, prima donna, Harry Lillford, tenor, and Sue Calmudge, a comedienne with a prima donna voice, Clarice Grey, Lucile Blythe, and Mazie Capper.

Birdie Ross and of course a beauty chorus of the nicest girls ever coaxed from Broadway. All of Mr. Bowers' latest compositions, yet unpublished, will be presented with the company's own symphony orchestra to help along with the harmony.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hanton and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Stewart were recent callers at the home of J. P. Cullen in Janesville.

"What is the most aggravating thing in married life?" asked Dorothy. "Sometimes," said the bachelor friend, "it's the husband, and sometimes it's the wife."

Roy Conley of Detroit, Mich., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Conley and other relatives here. Mrs. Clara Shaw of Kankakee is visiting her brother-in-law and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shaw. Clayton Wilson went to Libertyville on Thursday for a few days visit. Mrs. E. J. Boomer expects to leave on Saturday for a couple of weeks visit with her son George. Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Linnmore and Mr. and Mrs. Rob Simmons and family will motor to Chicago tomorrow for a visit until Sunday night. Mr. and Mrs. Pat Garvin left Thursday morning for a week's visit in Denver. Will Butler has changed his plans about moving west this winter and has purchased the H. F. Dallman house on School street. He has called off the auction of his household goods which he was to have tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willis and daughter Marla will leave Saturday for Racine for a month's visit with relatives. Harry Napper and two sons Clara

CHAPTER I.

At the Home of Hugo Chevet.

It was early autumn for the clusters of grapes above me were already purple, and the forest leaves were tinged with red. And yet the air was soft, and the golden bars of sun flickered down on the work in my lap through the laced branches of the trellis. The work was but a pretense, for I had fled the house to escape the voice of Monsieur Cassion who was still urging my uncle to accompany him on his journey into the wilderness. They sat in the great room before the fireplace, drinking, and I had heard enough already to tell me there was treachery on foot against the Sieur de la Salle. To be sure it was nothing to me, a girl knowing naught of such intrigue, yet I had not forgotten the day, three years before, when this La Salle, with others of his company, had halted before the Esquimaux convent, and the sisters bade them welcome for the night. "Was my part to help serve, and he had stroked my hair in tenderness. I had sung to them, and watched his face in the firelight as he listened. Never would I forget that face, nor believe evil of such a man. Not from the lips of Cassion nor even from the governor, La Barre.

I recalled it all now, as I sat there in the silence, pretending to work, how we watched them embark in their canoes and disappear, the Indian paddlers bending to their task, and Monsieur La Salle, standing, bareheaded as he waved farewell. Beyond him was the dark form of one they called Le Tonty, and in the first boat a mere boy lifted his ragged hat. I knew not why, but the memory of that had was clearer than all those others, for he had met me in the hall and we had talked long in the great window ere the sister came, and took me away. So I remembered him, and his name, Rene d'Artigny. And in all those years I heard no more. Into the black wilderness they swept and were lost to those of us at home in New France.

No doubt there were those who knew--Frontenac, Bizar, those who ruled over us at Quebec--but 'twas not a matter supposed to interest a girl, and so no word came to me. Once I asked my Uncle Chevet, and he replied in anger with only a few sentences, bidding me hold my tongue; yet he said enough so that I knew the Sieur de la Salle lived and had built a fort far away, and was buying furs of the Indians. It was this that brought jealousy and hatred. Once Monsieur Cassion came and stopped with us, and as I waited on him and Uncle Chevet, I caught words which told me that Frontenac was La Salle's friend, and would listen to no charges brought against him. They talked of a new governor, yet I learned but little, for Cassion attempted to kiss me, and I would wait on him no more.

Then Frontenac was recalled to France, and La Barre was governor. How pleased my Uncle Chevet was when the news came, and he rapped the table with his glass and exclaimed: "Ah! but now we will pluck out the claws of this Sieur de la Salle, and send him where he belongs." But he would explain nothing, until a week later. Cassion came up the river in his canoe with Indian paddlers, and stopped to hold conference. The man treated me with much gallantry, so that I questioned him, and he seemed happy to answer that La Barre had already dispatched a party under the redier de Baugis, of the King's flagships to take command of La Salle's Fort St. Louis in the Illinois country. La Salle had returned, and was already at Quebec, but Cassion grinned as he boasted that the new governor would not even give him audience. Bah! I despised the man, yet I lingered beside him, and thus learned that La Salle's party consisted of but two voyageurs, and the young Sieur d'Artigny. I was glad enough when he went away, though I gave him my hand to kiss, and waved to him bravely at the landing. And now he was back again, bearing a message from La Barre, and seeking volunteers for some western voyage of profit. 'Twas of no interest to me unless my uncle joined in the enterprise, yet I was kind enough, for no thought with him word of the governor's ball at Quebec, and had won the pledge of Chevet to take me there with him. I could be gracious to him for that and it was on my gown I worked, as the two planned and talked in secret. What they did was nothing to me now--all my thought was on the ball. What would you? I was 17.

The grape trellis ran down toward the river landing, and from where I sat in the cool shadow, I could see the broad water gleaming in the sun. Suddenly, as my eyes uplifted, the dark outline of a canoe swept into the vista, and the splashing paddles turned the prow inward toward our landing. I did not move, although I watched with interest, for it was not the time of year for Indian traders, and these were white men. I could see those at the paddles, voyageurs, with gay cloths about their heads; but the one in the stern wore a hat, the brim concealing his face, and a blue coat. I knew not who it could be until the prow touched the bank, and he stepped ashore. Then I knew, and bent low over my sewing, as though I had seen nothing, although my heart beat fast. Through lowered lashes I saw him give brief order to the men, and then advance toward the house alone. Ah! but this was not the slender, laughing-eyed boy of three years before. The wilderness had made of him a man--a soldier. He paused an instant to gaze about, and held his hat in his hand, the sun touching his tanned cheeks, and decking the long, light-colored hair.

"Mademoiselle," he said gently, "pardon me, but is not this the home of Hugo Chevet, the fur trader?"

I looked up into his face and bowed as he swept the earth with his hat, seeing at a glance that he had no remembrance of me.

"Yes," I answered. "If you seek him, rap on the door beyond."

"Is not so much Chevet I seek," he said, showing no inclination to pass me, but one whom I understood to be his guest--Monsieur Francois Cassion.

"The man is here," I answered quickly, yet unable to conceal my surprise, "but you will find him no friend to Sieur de la Salle."

"Ah!" he stared at me intently. "In the name of the saints, what is the meaning of this? You know me, then?"

I bowed, yet my eyes remained hidden.

"I knew you once as Monsieur's friend," I said, almost regretting my indiscretion, "and have been told you travel in his company."

"You knew me once?" he laughed. "Surely that cannot be, for never would I be likely to forget. I challenge you, mademoiselle, to speak my name."

"The Sieur Rene d'Artigny, mademoiselle."

"By my faith, the witch is right, and yet in all this New France I know scarce a maid. Nay look up; there is naught to fear from me, and I would see if memory be not new born. Saint Gilest! surely 'tis true: I have seen those eyes before; why, the name is on my tongue, yet fails me, lost in the wilderness. I pray you mercy, mademoiselle."

"You have memory of the face you say?"

"Ay, the witchery of it; 'tis like a haunting spirit."

"Which did not haunt long, I warrant. I am Adele la Chesnayne, mademoiselle."

millar sound; then his face brightened and his eyes smiled as his lips echoed the words.

"Adele la Chesnayne! Ah! now I know. Why 'tis no less than a miracle. It was a child I thought of, under that name--a slender, brown-eyed girl, as blithesome as a bird. No, I had not forgotten; only the magic of three years has made of you a woman. Again and again have I questioned in Montreal and Quebec, but no one seemed to know. At the convent they said your father fell in Indian skirmish."

"Yes; ever since then I have lived here, with my uncle, Hugo Chevet." "Here," he looked about, as though the dreariness of it was first noticed. "Alone? Is there no other woman?" I shook my head, but no longer looked at him, for fear he might see the tears in my eyes.

"I am the housekeeper, monsieur. There was nothing else for me. In France, I am told, my father's people were well born, but this is not France, and there was no choice. Besides I was but a child of 14."

"And 17, now, mademoiselle," and he took my hand gallantly. "Pardon if I have asked questions which bring pain. I can understand much, for in Montreal I heard tales of this Hugo Chevet."

"He is rough, a woodsman," I defended. "Yet not unkind to me. You will speak him fair?"

He laughed, his eyes sparkling with merriment.

"No fear of my neglecting all courtesy, for I come beseeching a favor, I have learned the lesson of when the soft speech wins more than the iron hand. And this other, the Commissaire Cassion--is he a bird of the same plumage?"

I made a little gesture, and glanced back at the closed door.

"Oh, no; he is the court courier, to stab with words, not deeds. Chevet is rough of speech, and hard of hand, but he fights in the open; Cassion has a double tongue, and one never knows him."

I glanced up into his sobered face. "He is a friend of La Barre."

"So 'tis said, and has been chosen by the governor to hear message to De Baugis in the Illinois country. I seek passage in his company."

"You! I thought you were of the party of Sieur de la Salle?"

"I am," he answered honestly, "yet Cassion will need a guide, and there is none save myself in all New France who has ever made that journey. 'Twill be well for him to listen to my plan. And why not? We do not fight the orders of the governor: we obey, and wait. Monsieur de la Salle will tell his story to the king."

"The King! To Louis?"

"Ay, 'twill not be the first time he has had audience, and already he is at sea. We can wait, and laugh at this Cassion over his useless journey."

"But he--he is treacherous, monsieur."

He laughed as though the words amused.

"To one who has lived as I, amid savages, treachery is an old story. The commissaire will not find me asleep. We will serve each other, and let it go at that. Ah! we are to be interrupted."

He straightened up facing the door, and I turned, confronting my uncle as he emerged in advance. He was a burly man, with iron gray hair, and face reddened by out-of-doors; and he stopped in surprise at sight of a stranger, his eyes hardening with suspicion.

"And who is this with whom you converse so privately, Adele?" he questioned brusquely, "a young popinjay new to these parts I venture."

"Artigny stepped between us, smiling in good humor."

"My call was upon you, Monsieur Chevet, and not the young lady," he said quietly enough, yet with a tone to the voice. "I merely asked her if I had found the right place, and if Monsieur the Commissaire Cassion was still your guest."

"And what, may I ask, might be your business with the Commissaire Cassion?" asked the latter, pressing past Chevet, yet bowing with a semblance of politeness, scarcely in accord with the studied insolence of his words. "I have no remembrance of your face."

"Then, Monsieur Cassion is not observant," returned the younger man pleasantly. "As I accompanied the Sieur de la Salle in his attempt to have audience with the governor."

"Ah!" the word of surprise exploded from the lips. "Sacre! 'tis true! My faith, what difference clothes make. I mistook you for a courier du bois."

"I am the Sieur Rene d'Artigny," "Lieutenant of La Salle's?"

"Scarcely that, monsieur, but a comrade; for three years I have been with his party, and was chosen by him for this mission."

"There are more cars passing along the road now than in the old days," he muttered; "but that's a queer sound. It reminds one--good heavens, how it reminds one!"

There was a look of agony in his face for a moment. Then once more he raised his glass to his lips.

"It's passed out of hearing," Stephen said. "It's someone on the way to the castle, maybe."

Still their glasses remained suspended in midair. The little garden gate had opened and closed with a click; there were footsteps upon the flint walk.

"It's someone coming here!" John cried hoarsely. "Why can't they keep away? It's two years ago this week since I brought her up the drive and you met us at the front door. Two years ago, Stephen! Who can it be?"

They heard the front door open, they heard Jennings' voice raised in unusual and indignant protest. Then their own door was suddenly flung wide, and a miracle happened. John's glass slipped from his fingers, and the wine streamed out across the carpet. He shrank back, gripping at the tablecloth. Stephen turned his head, and sat as if turned to stone.

"John," she faltered, "it isn't the car this time--it is I who have broken down! I cannot go on. I have no pride left. I have come to you. Will you help me?"

He found himself upon his feet. Stephen, too, had arisen. She stood between the two men, and glanced from one to the other. Then she looked more closely into John's face, peering forward with a little start of pain, and her eyes were filled with tears.

"John," she cried, "forgive me! You were so cruel that morning, and you seemed to understand so little. Don't you really understand, even now? Have you ever known the truth, I wonder?"

"The truth!" he echoed hoarsely.

"Don't we all know that? Don't we all know that he is to give you your rights, that you are coming--"

"Stop!" she ordered him.

He obeyed, and for a moment there was silence--a tense, strained silence.

"John," she continued at last, "I have no rights to receive from the prince of Seyre. He owes me nothing. Listen! Always we have seen life differently, you and I. To me there is only one great thing, and that is love; and beyond that nothing counts. I tried to love the prince before you came, and I thought I did, and I promised him at last, because I believed that he loved me and that I loved him, and that if so it was his right. Look down the road, John! On that night I was on my way to the castle; but I broke down, and in the morning the world was all different, and I went back to London. It has been different ever since, and there has never been any question of anything between the prince and me, because I knew that it was not love."

John was shaking in every limb. His eyes were filled with fierce questioning. Stephen sat there, and there was wonder in his face, too.

"I've Come for You!"

there, lay the cloth, and get some supper ready."

Through the open doorway they heard Adele's voice in the hall.

"Meester Jennings, will you please come and help me with the luggage?" "Get along with you!" Stephen ordered. "You'd better hurry up with the supper, too. The boy Tom can see to the luggage."

The old man recovered himself slowly.

"You're taking 'em in, sir--taking 'em into the house?" he gasped. "What about that toast?"

Stephen refilled two glasses. "We'd better alter it a little," he declared. "Here's confusion to most women, but luck to John and his wife!"

"Mr. John and his wife!" Jennings repeated, as he set his glass down empty. "I'll just see that them sheets is aired upstairs, sir, or that hussy will be making eyes at Tom!"

He departed, and Stephen was left alone. He sat and listened to the sound of luggage being taken upstairs, to Adele's little torrent of directions, good-humored but profuse, to the sound of preparations in the kitchen. In the room the tall clock ticked solemnly; a fragment of the log every now and then fell upon the hearth.

Presently he rose to his feet. He heard the click of the garden gate, the sound of John and Louise returning. He rose and stood ready to welcome them.

THE END.

BIGGEST SLACKER OF ALL IS THE FOOD WASTER

La Crosse, Sept. 29.--"The biggest slacker of them all is he who heeds not the warnings of the food administrators," said T. H. Campion, principal of the La Crosse county agricultural college to a large audience at the interstate fair here. He predicted compulsory wheatless and meatless days unless some attention was paid to the advice of conservation experts.

"Then why don't you go and see about it, you old fool?" Stephen replied. "Pick up those pieces of glass

Dinner Stories

"Henry," said Mrs. Naggles, impatiently, "I've decided to take up lecturing."

"Nonsense!" said her husband. "I mean it, Henry. I have talents that require a wider scope than that afforded by the domestic circle. My mind is quite made up."

"Well, my dear, if you will, you will," he said resignedly. "But I'll tell you one thing. You'll never get the public to sit up till 1 and 2 o'clock to listen to you, the way I do."

A fond mother was holding forth to an interested group at a recent baby show on the manifold virtues of her little girl, and laid special stress on the child's ready obedience. In one way only she failed in this direction. She disliked most cordially a certain proprietary medicine, and there was terrible scenes, holding of noses, hands and so forth, before she could be made to swallow it.

Eventually her mother hit upon the expedient of inducing her to take it by paying her a penny for each dose she swallowed.

The little one fell in with the idea readily enough, the pennies were duly deposited in her money box one by one, and there was no more trouble or fuss.

"Rather an expensive way of getting over the difficulty, though, isn't it?" put in one of the group of "Oh, no, not at all! You see, as soon as there was enough pennies in the box I came out and buy her another bottle of medicine!"

Catherine had requested, as a special birthday treat, that she be allowed to have coffee for breakfast. Her mother, not all pleased with the idea, was diluting it generously.

Catherine peered over into the cup, and then exclaimed in great disappointment: "Goodness! Don't I get any of the brown?"

To endure injustice without answering it with hatred, to endure grief without having the spirit broken, to endure disappointment and yet to go on cheerfully--these things make character.

LOUDEST OBJECTORS ARE GERMAN AGENTS ROOSEVELT DECLARES

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Minneapolis, Sept. 29.—"The loudest so-called 'conscientious objectors' in this country today are the paid or unpaid agents of the German government," Theodore Roosevelt declared here last night in a speech before the Labor Loyalty League. He asserted that the majority of these men are not actuated by conscience at all, and that the "bulk are slackers, pure and simple, or else traitorous pro-Germans."

Describing the various kinds of pacifists in this country, Mr. Roosevelt said that some of the leading apostles of applied pacifism are not timid men, but, on the contrary, they are brutal, violent men who are perfectly willing to fight, but only for themselves and not for the nation. These rough-neck pacifists, he said, "have always been at the front of the furor of milk-and-water pacifists. The pacifist, the white-handed or sissy type of pacifist, represents decadence, represents the rotting out of the virile, the healthy side of civilization. The rough-neck pacifist, on the contrary, is a mere belated savage, who has not been educated and who is willing to fight for the national flag and the national ideal."

Mr. Roosevelt continued: "If a man does not wish to take life, but does wish to serve his country, let him serve on board a mine-sweeper or in some other position where the danger is to own life and not to the life of anyone else. But he will take no use of his right to help in this way, in running his share of the common risk and doing his part of the common duty, then treat him as having forfeited his right to vote. His right to render at the polls any decision which in the long run can only be made good in the face of a sound and healthy nation by the ability and willingness of good citizens to back right with right."

Such a man, Mr. Roosevelt insisted, who claims citizenship and tries to evade the performance of his duty, is not entitled to any of the rights of citizenship, saying: "Service to the nation in war stands service. If a man will not perform his duty, let him lose all the benefits of war, and at least let him lose the political rights which a free country can know only if its citizens are willing to fight for them. We stand against all privilege not based on the full performance of duty, and there is no more contemptible form of privilege than the privilege of existing in snug, self-righteous, peaceful safety because others, braver, more self-sacrificing men give the safety and the war to us. If a man is too conscientious to fight, then the rest of us ought to be too conscientious to let him vote in a democratic land which can permanently exist only if the average man is willing in the last resort to fight for it and die for it."

Mr. Roosevelt said that any workman today, whether he be on the factory or in the shop, who supports Germany, is not only playing the part of a traitor to the United States, but is playing the part of a traitor to the whole spirit of democracy throughout the civilized world. The speaker asserted that the Socialist party and the I. W. W. organization in this country had been the tools of German autocracy and the enemies of liberty.

A plea for universal military obligation was made by Mr. Roosevelt, who said that the selective draft system is wrong "because it chooses out one man to make the sacrifice and do the work of two or three other men who are allowed to stay at home and make money, while the first man risks his life for their common country."

The officers' training camps were also criticized by Mr. Roosevelt, because, he said, "they have been so conducted that only men of some means could go thither or send their sons." He said they have done admirable work, but this feature ought to be remedied so "every man who is a respectable man and who has sons of the right type would feel that those sons had an equal chance to become officers with any man in the land."

Orfordville News

Mrs. Bernice Ward has been enjoying a two weeks' vacation at the home of her parents from her duties at a Milwaukee training school for nurses.

TEACHERS OF CITY GIVEN A RECEPTION

Many in Attendance at Teacher's Reception held at High School Building Last Evening.

(By Mrs. Abby Holmes)
"To pull together for better things in Janesville," was the thought suggested by Professor Faust at the reception, given to the new teachers of the city, at the High School building last evening, and the same idea animated the feelings of those who were present on that occasion. It was an assemblage in the history of the city as it embraced nearly all who were closely identified with the educational affairs, not only of the city schools, but also those of the county and the state. As Prof. Faust said in the informal talk preceding the musical program, "that it was an audience, absolutely unmatched in its ability to consider the educational problems of the city, that is was a democratic group embracing not only those trained in educational matters, but also the representatives of the city's organizations, who were in sympathy with the highest development of school interests." The close coordination of all the educational work of the city, was also touched upon by Prof. Faust. The plan of the educational system, as it was woven with that of the High School, as many of the pupils attended classes in both.

The training school, was also broadly touched, as the city's pupils of the grades were in attendance at the model school conducted in connection with training school work.

The city school system, was connected with the county work, as pupils were constantly coming in from the country schools to take up further training in the city. All these and many other groups, were in sympathy with educational matters, touching the city schools. The occasion of last evening was planned as a well-remembered one, for the new teachers, there were about twenty-five starting in on their work this fall. Those present at the reception were Prof. Faust, with his staff of seven teachers; Prof. Hill of the High School, with the thirty or thirty-five teachers on his staff; Prof. Lowth and four teachers of the Training School, and Mr. J. L. Hooper, Supt. of the School, of the city.

Further Olds of the Catholic schools, O. D. Antisdel, superintendent of county schools was also present. The interests of the city were represented by Mayor Fathers, and by many members of the school board, who were headed by their president, Mr. S. M. Smith. Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, who was president of the board for many years, was also present. Mr. Geo. S. Parker, president of the Commercial Club and Mrs. S. M. Smith president of the city Federation of Women, represented their respective organizations, both of whom had been vitally interested in bettering the condition of the city schools. Several ladies appointed to work on the survey committee, Mrs. Fred Sheldon, Mrs. E. M. and Mrs. M. O. Mount were also in attendance.

Mr. Bassford who was the new principal of the high school was introduced by Prof. Faust. He expressed himself as being very happy in his new position, and especially gratified with the welcome given by the teachers who were new comers to the city. Mr. Bassford and wife are located in the McConnell flats, corner of S. Jackson and Holmes streets. In the informal program given during the evening, Miss Means of the School of the Blind played a piano solo. Miss Fitzgerald of the Industrial School gave a reading, "Who's Afraid," and Mrs. Faith Bosworth Dearborn sang a vocal number, "I Hear a Future."

A jazz orchestra of ten pieces, rendered a number of popular selections, during the evening. Their music proved so enticing that a little informal dancing was indulged in. The members of the orchestra were Mr. Phillips at the piano and Messrs. Richards, Cushing, Worlds, Williams and Davey, and Misses Dunn, Hodge, McManus and Brown. Others assisted from time to time during the evening.

Refreshments of fruit salad, coffee and sandwiches were served in a safe terrace style, under the direction of a committee composed of the Misses Matthews, Atwood, Royce, Hill, McGinley and Cox, and Messrs. Manross and Weyrell.

About two hundred and twenty-five people were served. A very cozy arrangement of easy chairs and small tables were placed in groups about the rooms, while decorations of flags and baskets of wall flowers helped to make the gymnasium room, where the exercises were held, very attractive. The committee on program was headed by Miss Sewell, who was assisted by Misses Marion Hodge and Miss Phoebe McManus, Mrs. Hull and Mr. Phillips. All the husbands and wives of the interested parties were also invited and helped to add to the social interest of the occasion.

NEW RULE PERMITTING CATCH OF 7-INCH PERCH TO AID FOOD QUESTION

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 29.—Through the efforts of the state council of defense, the Wisconsin conservation commission has agreed to allow fishermen to catch 7-inch perch in Green Bay according to information received from Captain W. E. Bader of the commission. The decision to abrogate the 8-inch perch law was reached in order to secure an increased supply of food and to provide a source of food for the needy. Perch must not be sold outside the state, the commission decreed.

Green Bay fishermen appealed to the state council of defense, the conservation commission and Governor Philipp for permission to catch 7-inch perch. The decision in favor of the fishermen means that they will earn $40,000 that would have been lost to them had the 8-inch law on perch been enforced.

POLICE THROW UP CHASE OF LA CROSSE MURDERER

La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 29.—Despite reports from many sources to the effect that Edwin Hauge, alleged West Salem murderer of Mrs. Cora Miller, had been seen in the vicinity of Caladonia and Preneburg, Minn., he has not been apprehended. The police department here has dropped the case, turning the entire affair over to Sheriff John A. Weber, District Attorney Schlichtbach, Chief John Weber of the police, being unable to continue work because of lack of funds. Hauge is alleged to have murdered Mrs. Miller last February and then buried her body in the cellar of her home where it was found July 31, last.

MILL WORKER KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY A FLYING BLOCK

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Marquette, Wis., Sept. 29.—Moses Guessther, 50, was killed at the Niagara Falls mill Thursday night when a block of wood which was thrown from a revolving saw, struck him on the head. It is said the guard on the machine was in place, but that the chunk of wood struck the guard, bounced off and hit the unfortunate man.

U. S. AERONAUTS IN FRANCE START WORK

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
American Field Headquarters, France, Sept. 29.—Tucked away in the obscurity of France, where even the war news filters through several days late, Uncle Sam's fledgling aviators are beginning to sprout their wings.

You will find them in two big French aerodromes—men of the army and navy and Americans of the French Foreign Legion who have temporarily expatriated themselves to learn flying.

The early bird man catches his coffee and rolls at 4:30 a. m. and from that time on until 10 o'clock at night—in good weather—his hazardous day is crowded with work and lectures and study.

The daily schedule calls for three hours rest between noon and three o'clock. Sometimes a fellow gets a chance to sleep in this period but more often he spends it propped up in his cot studying the ways and wherefores of the spiral spin.

Uncle Sam's own aviation field isn't an aviation field at all just now. Engineers are working the putting of barracks and hangars, building the necessary railroad spurs with the aid of a band of complacent German prisoners. Pretty soon now, if the officials and the people at home come through with the material, this field will become one of the greatest aviation bases in the world. But the flyers can't wait so they're learning what the French do.

Take the army and navy men's school. These men are picked because of their unusual qualifications and sent over here to France to study flying with experienced French aviators. Already one class of navy men has graduated from the preliminary course of flying and passed on to the second course where they learn to handle the big machines which drop bombs and the fleet little craft that do the fighting.

Mingling with the American soldiers and sailors are two American Foreign Legion, who flocked over here confident of learning somehow, somewhere the flying game more quickly than they could at home. They will be ready with the rest when the time comes to fly before the American trenches and stifle the enemy guns.

Rich man's heir and poor man's son and the college athletic hero of a season ago are mingled together, taking the same course, living under the same discipline.

The new student goes up in a plane with a double set of control levers," said a young Lieutenant, the son of a former major of the French army. "If the student makes a mistake, the French pilot sitting behind him gives a hand signal for the student to let go of everything. Then the pilot works the plane with his own hands and it isn't too late he can prevent accidents. The double control lever saves a lot of fellows from getting hurt."

But people will get hurt despite the control system. Students at this school point out two spots on their flying field where two American naval flyers fell to their death while learning. A farther down the field, he said, a big hangar, there is a pile of three or four junked aeroplanes, broken in minor flying accidents.

French officers, admirers of American sense of discipline. Here is an instance that the whole camp will remember. The pilot instructed his student to steer a straight course in a matter what he read because a machine pupil is likely to upset his machine by attempting to turn. The pupil obeyed and crashed into a tree. Both occupants but the machine was not injured but the instructor was satisfied he had a man of nerve.

Granny singled in the third inning and went to second on Chapman's sacrifice. He stole third and then worked the double steal with Roth when the latter had reached first. It was the only run of the game.

U. S. MARINE BAND AT PARIS, S. C.

Among the members of the United States Marine Band at Paris Island, S. C., is James T. Brown, a Janesville boy. He is the brother of Mrs. James W. Reed of 2100 Pleasant street. Brown was recently assigned to the organization as a tuba player.

His picture appears above in company with other members of the band. Since the increase of the marine corps' personnel, musicians have been in great demand, being needed for additional regimental bands that are being organized. A school has been instituted at Paris Island, where men who possess a fair knowledge of music, are given a complete course, free of charge. Admittance can be gained by applying to the post bandmaster.

Brown is well pleased with the school, as well as with the marine corps in general, and recommends it to his friends as the most preferable branch of the military service. Prior to enlisting, Brown was a member of the band in this city. A recent announcement that eighteen of the men who appear in the picture have already started for France.

$50 FOR CAPTURE OF ANY DESERTER

Government Offers Reward for All Deserters Turned Over to Authorities at Camp.

Fifty dollars reward will be given by the government for the delivery of any deserter to the nearest army camp or post. Notice of this offer was received by the secretary of the local exemption board in a telegram from Provost Marshal General Crowder as one step in the federal efforts to round up all would-be dodgers of the draft.

Any person who fails to report to his local board for military service at the time specified in his order to report is a deserter. Similarly, a person who fails to report for military service to the adjutant general of the state by the date specified in the order of the adjutant general to him is a deserter.

The offering of a fifty dollar reward is intended to build up a great force of police officers and of individuals who are interested in bringing to justice a deserter. If after these persons are brought to the military authorities it appears that their delinquency is not wilful, they will be forwarded to a mobilization camp and their local board will be given credit. If, on the other hand, it appears that the man was a real deserter, he will be prosecuted before court martial as such. In either case, however, the reward is payable.

To date there have been no cases of desertion in this district. Every man ordered to report for service has done so at the designated hour.

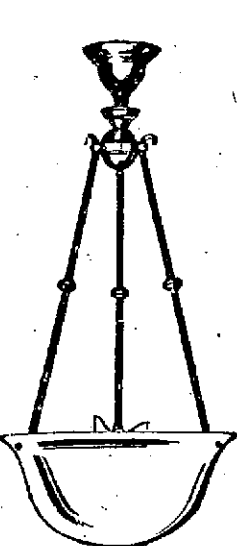

ETHEL WELSH ENTERTAINS ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY

Miss Ethel Welsh entertained the members of the U. S. S. club and several friends at an announcement party Monday evening at her home, 419 Locust street, in honor of Miss Mayme Stearns, who is soon to become a bride.

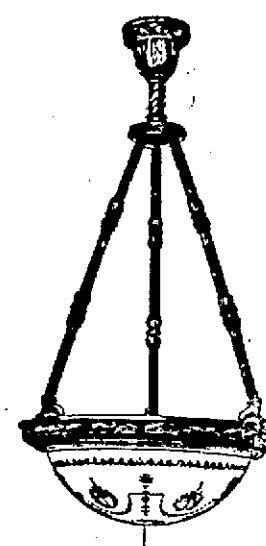

The home was very beautifully decorated, the color scheme being red, white and blue, pink asters, flags and favors being used. The evening was very pleasantly spent in music and games prizes being given. A three-course luncheon was served at a late hour.

Bill Doak, of the St. Louis Cardinals, hopped into the "iron man" class a while ago when he pitched and won both games of a double header with the Brooklyn Dodgers.
